Statement regarding H.R. 4173 „Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act“ Section 1502 „Conflict Minerals“

Dear Madam / Sir,

Thank you very much for your interest in our products and your enquiry concerning the EU Conflict Minerals Regulation, which recently entered into force, and the Dodd-Frank Act.

The EU Conflict Minerals Regulation refers specifically to Union importers of minerals and metals. WEMA GmbH is not a Union importer of minerals and metals, the so-called conflict minerals, and hence not directly affected either by Regulation [EU] 2017/821. We do not process and sell raw materials / commodities but use exclusively metal alloys in processed form in semi-finished products, cables or C components in order to manufacture our products. We purchase these semi-finished products, cables, or C components from suppliers within the European Union.

As a German company, we do not fall within the direct scope of application of the Dodd-Frank Act. Nevertheless, we pay great attention in principle to German, European and international developments in relation to environmental, ethical and social standards and feel committed to dealing with this matter in a very sensitive way. We therefore urge our suppliers on principle to provide for the greatest possible levels of traceability and transparency.

We hope that this has been a satisfactory answer to your enquiry.

With kind regards

Matthias Bittern
